3. Roles and Responsibilities
- HR Department: Manages employee communication, documentation, and compliance.
- IT Department: Ensures the timely revocation of system access and retrieval of assets.
- Team Manager: Oversees knowledge transfer and ensures continuity of project work.

4. Offboarding Process
Step 1: Notification and Documentation
- Upon receiving resignation or termination notice, HR initiates the offboarding process.
- An official letter of resignation/termination should be documented.
- HR creates an exit checklist to track the process.

Step 2: Access Revocation
- IT must disable all system access, including:
  - Email accounts
  - User accounts across all internal systems and applications
- Physical access tools such as keycards, access badges, and office keys must be retrieved.
- Ensure removal from third-party systems, including vendor portals and code repositories.

Step 3: Asset Retrieval and Data Management
- Employees must return company-issued assets such as laptops, phones, and peripherals.
- IT performs a secure data wipe on returned devices.
- Managers should ensure that project files, credentials, and documentation are transitioned to appropriate team members.

Step 4: Financial and Benefits Settlement
- HR processes the employee's final payroll, including unused leave, bonuses, or reimbursements.
- Benefits such as insurance, retirement plans, and memberships must be reviewed for termination or transfer.

Step 5: Knowledge Transfer
- Managers must arrange a knowledge transfer session to ensure continuity of tasks.

- Critical project information, credentials, and key contacts should be documented.

Step 6: Compliance and Legal Requirements

- HR ensures that confidentiality agreements, non-disclosure clauses, and IP rights obligations are reiterated.
- Maintain audit logs for access removals, asset handovers, and policy adherence.

Step 7: Exit Interview

- HR conducts an exit interview to gather feedback on the employee's experience and identify potential improvements.
- Document insights to improve retention and work environment.

Step 8: Communication Plan

- Inform the department's team, ensuring role transitions are seamless.
- Notify external stakeholders if required for ongoing projects or client relationships.

11.5. Timelines

- The entire offboarding process typically takes a minimum of 3 to 7 business days to complete.
